

Commercial Digital Landscape

NEWCASTLE + DUNDRUM, CO. DOWN

A field guide to the strongest websites, the weakest digital execution, the businesses missing an owned web presence, and the economics shaping local demand.

RESEARCH REPORT

EXECUTIVE CONCLUSION

A two-speed digital economy - not a digital desert

"The upper end is better than expected. The median is still well below par."

Newcastle and Dundrum contain several excellent commercial websites, especially where a booking, reservation, order or high-value enquiry can be traced directly to the site. Beneath that upper tier sits a much larger group of independents relying on social platforms, directories or dated brochure sites.

01

Strongest assets

Hotels, destination restaurants, premium accommodation, specialist retail, golf, weddings and bookable experiences.

02

Weakest pattern

Not simply old visual design, but stale content, template residue, unclear booking paths and no named owner.

03

Best opportunity

Managed digital operations: accurate information, direct conversion, analytics, customer capture and seasonal upkeep.

04

Economic reality

A large bespoke build is a poor fit for many walk-in businesses. A small, maintained owned presence is not.

CORE THESIS

The market is underserved in ownership of the customer journey, rather than in the one-off production of attractive pages. The local commercial proposition should be framed around more direct bookings, orders, enquiries and repeat customers - not simply a prettier website.

A

Read the rankings as an outside-in commercial assessment.

They reflect what a prospective customer can see and do publicly. They are not a substitute for analytics, accessibility testing, technical performance data or internal profitability information.

NEWCASTLE
larger visitor hub

DUNDRUM
smaller destination cluster

01 / MARKET CONTEXT

Small resident markets, enlarged by destination demand

Newcastle's resident base is modest, but its effective commercial market is much larger because it functions as a seaside, mountain, golf and hospitality destination. Dundrum is much smaller again, yet supports a striking cluster of destination food and accommodation businesses.

NEWCASTLE

8,2982021 resident population ^[1]

DUNDRUM

1,5382021 resident population ^[2]

Implication: local residents alone cannot justify ambitious digital investment across every business. Visitor intent, transaction value and the ability to convert directly are the decisive variables.

These are Northern Ireland-wide figures rather than Newcastle-specific data. They demonstrate both the size and volatility of the addressable visitor market. ^[3] of visitors surveyed in a 2018 Newry, Mourne and Down study came from outside Northern Ireland. Online sources dominated pre-trip planning and remained important during visits. The sample was small and dated, but the strategic direction remains relevant. ^[4]

LOCAL SIGNAL

74%

01 / MARKET CONTEXT

The local market divides into two distinct digital economies

LANE A

High-intent visitor and transaction businesses

Hotels, premium accommodation, destination restaurants, weddings, golf, specialist retail and bookable experiences.

REVENUE EVENT

Room, table, order, voucher or qualified enquiry

MEASUREMENT

Direct conversion is visible enough to justify investment

TYPICAL OUTCOME

Competent or excellent websites with active funnels

LANE B

Low-ticket, walk-in and microbusiness long tail

Independent shops, cafes, seasonal operators and small services where the website is often treated as a static expense.

REVENUE EVENT

Frequent, lower-value, often offline and difficult to attribute

MEASUREMENT

Weak data encourages dependence on social platforms

TYPICAL OUTCOME

Facebook-first presence, directories or stale brochure sites

NOT THE MAIN SHORTAGE

Design capacity

The area can access capable agencies, specialist platforms and regional studios. Several local implementations are strong.

THE REAL SHORTAGE

Affordable digital operations

Monthly QA, content updates, conversion checks, analytics review and clear ownership after launch.

THE COMMERCIAL RISK

Overbuilding

Large bespoke sites can destroy ROI for low-ticket businesses when a maintained one-page or platform-led solution would perform better.

Therefore: the winning proposition is not "every business needs a big website". It is "every viable business needs an owned, accurate and proportionate customer journey".

02 / AUDIT METHOD

What was assessed - and what the rankings mean

More than 30 public-facing assets were reviewed across official websites, social profiles, booking platforms, tourism listings, directories, agency credits and local media. The lens was commercial effectiveness, not aesthetic taste.

Ownership + discovery

01

Functioning domain, clear search result and independence from social platforms.

Clarity

02

Immediate explanation of the offer, location and intended customer.

Freshness

03

Current menus, prices, dates, opening times, events and availability information.

Conversion

04

Booking, ordering, purchase, enquiry, vouchers, calls and directions.

Trust + brand

05

Contact detail, policies, social proof, local story and distinctive content.

Retention + hygiene

06

Email capture, repeat-purchase mechanics, working maps and absence of template residue.

Leading

Strong

Functional

Underperforming

visible friction or stale ownership

Critical

trust-damaging defects or no owned site

LIMITATIONS

No access was available to traffic, conversion rates, customer-acquisition costs, private Google Business data, CRM systems or profitability. "No website found" means that no functioning, discoverable standalone domain surfaced through exact-name, social, directory and likely-domain searches at the audit date.

03 / BEST EXAMPLES

The strongest commercial websites reviewed

The upper tier is defined by direct conversion, clear propositions and proportionate investment - not visual polish alone.

1	Slieve Donard LEADING	A complete destination-hospitality funnel with booking, dining, spa, golf, weddings, experiences and offers. ^[5]
2	Painted Earth LEADING	The strongest independent-retail example: ecommerce, local makers, workshops, editorial and store discovery. ^[6]
3	Nugelato LEADING	A scalable brand platform supporting retail, vouchers, stockists, careers, franchising and growth. ^[7]
4	The Carriage House STRONG	Focused direct-booking site with rooms, rates, gallery and local-area content. ^[8]
5	Burrendale Hotel STRONG	Rooms, dining, spa, weddings, meetings, events, offers and vouchers in one credible journey. ^[9]
6	The Bucks Head STRONG	Current menus, reservations, vouchers, bar, restaurant and accommodation information. ^[10]
7	Mourne Seafood STRONG	Multi-location restaurant platform with reservations, menus, fish retail, vouchers and accommodation. ^[11]
8	RuMac's Pizza FUNCTIONAL+	Right-sized ordering asset that prioritises collection, delivery and repeat ordering. ^[12]

Important: Slieve Donard and Nugelato operate with scale and resources that are not realistic benchmarks for every independent. The Carriage House and RuMac's are especially useful examples of right-sized digital execution.

03 / BEST EXAMPLES

Four standout models

Slieve Donard

01

Destination platform

The most complete funnel reviewed: visible direct booking, rooms and suites, multiple dining propositions, golf, spa, weddings, meetings, experiences, offers, vouchers and newsletter capture. It turns the destination itself into content. ^[5]

WHY IT WINS

High-value conversions + deep packaging of place

QUALIFICATION

Group-backed upper benchmark, not a small-business budget comparator

Painted Earth

02

Independent retail

Combines a deep ecommerce catalogue with local artists and makers, original art, workshops, gifting, store information, shipping and editorial content. Its real-world expansion is documented on the owned site. ^{[6][26]}

WHY IT WINS

Commerce, community and content reinforce one another

Nugelato

03

Scalable local brand

Covers products, allergens, vouchers, locations, stockists, franchising, careers, history, newsletter capture and social channels. It supports retail, recruitment, wholesale and expansion simultaneously. ^[7]

WHY IT WINS

One owned platform serving multiple growth engines

The Carriage House

04

Right-sized accommodation

A compact, focused site with accommodation positioning, rooms and rates, a gallery, direct booking, local-area information and clear contact details. Nothing is overbuilt. ^[8]

WHY IT WINS

Small site, high-intent task, direct outcome

03 / BEST EXAMPLES

Strong execution across hospitality and ordering

- | | | |
|-------|--|-------------------|
| 05 | Burrendale Hotel
Direct accommodation booking, dining reservations, offers, gift vouchers, spa, weddings, meetings, events and newsletter acquisition are brought together in one credible hospitality funnel. ^[9] | MULTI-PROPOSITION |
| <hr/> | | |
| 06 | The Bucks Head
Strong restaurant fundamentals: menus, reservations, vouchers, front-bar and restaurant information, opening hours and accommodation content. Minor hygiene issues remain, but the next action is obvious. ^[10] | RESTAURANT + STAY |
| <hr/> | | |
| 07 | Mourne Seafood
A useful multi-location platform covering menus, reservations, fish retail, vouchers and accommodation. Multiple direct transaction paths are available, though duplicated content and older template elements reduce polish. ^[11] | MULTI-LOCATION |
| <hr/> | | |
| 08 | RuMac's Pizza
Probably the best right-sized asset for a lower-ticket operator: delivery and collection ordering, app access and a first-order incentive. It prioritises the main commercial task rather than expensive editorial content. ^[12] | PLATFORM-LED |

Principle: proportionality beats prestige.

The best local website is not necessarily the most expensive. It is the smallest asset that removes friction from the highest-value customer action and can be kept accurate over time.

03 / BEST EXAMPLES

What the best sites do differently

01

They connect search to a transaction

A visitor can book a room, reserve a table, buy a voucher, order food or purchase a product without changing platform.

02

They package the destination

The Mournes, Murlough, golf, sea views, local makers and village character become part of the product rather than generic background.

03

They capture future demand

Newsletters, vouchers, accounts and repeat-purchase mechanics reduce dependence on one-off social reach.

04

They fit the business model

Large hospitality brands justify deep content. Small operators win with a tight path to the customer action that matters most.

A maintained five-page site with direct booking can be more commercially sophisticated than a beautiful twenty-page brochure with no conversion path.

04 / WEAKEST DIGITAL EXECUTION

Where visible defects weaken trust and conversion

This is a ranking of public digital execution - not a judgement on the underlying businesses.

CRITICAL

newcastle-county-down.com
directory

No records found and failed map functionality inside a discovery product. ^[13]

CRITICAL

Tonn Ruray

Unrelated template identity, misspellings and incomplete accommodation detail. ^[14]

UNDERPERFORMING

McCready's Footwear

Lorem ipsum, stale editorial content and inconsistent domain signals. ^[15]

UNDERPERFORMING

Coco's Adventure Playground

Older brochure experience with time-sensitive information pushed to Facebook. ^[16]

UNDERPERFORMING

Avoca Hotel

Basic legacy brochure with no prominent direct-booking journey. ^[17]

01

Template residue

Unrelated names, placeholder copy and incomplete fields

02

Freshness failure

Old news, unclear seasons, stale prices or unfinished content

03

Conversion gap

No prominent booking, order or enquiry journey

04

Platform dependence

Facebook becomes the only reliable source of live information

The key distinction: an unattractive website can still work. A site that damages confidence at the moment of booking is commercially dangerous.

04 / WEAKEST DIGITAL EXECUTION

Three high-friction examples

01 Newcastle business directory

DISCOVERY FAILURE

OBSERVED

"No Records Found" and a failed Maps API message appear inside the listings experience. The installation looks unfinished or poorly maintained. ^[13]

COMMERCIAL CONSEQUENCE

A collective directory should lower discovery costs for dozens of businesses. Instead, it sends users back to Google, Facebook or TripAdvisor.

PRIORITY REPAIR

Fix data, map integration and ownership before adding features. Validate every live listing.

02 Tonn Ruray

TRUST FAILURE

OBSERVED

The live page contains the unrelated identity "Mason Manor", template navigation, repeated spelling errors and incomplete price areas. ^[14]

COMMERCIAL CONSEQUENCE

The underlying proposition is strong, but template residue raises doubt exactly when a visitor is considering food or accommodation.

PRIORITY REPAIR

Content QA, booking clarity, final copy pass and removal of every template artefact.

03 McCready's Footwear

OWNERSHIP FAILURE

OBSERVED

A substantial Lorem ipsum section remains live; the only visible news item is the 2021 launch and contact/domain signals are inconsistent. ^[15]

COMMERCIAL CONSEQUENCE

The commerce foundation exists, but poor QA and stale merchandising undermine confidence and search value.

PRIORITY REPAIR

Name a content owner, remove placeholders and establish a monthly merchandising rhythm.

04 / WEAKEST DIGITAL EXECUTION

The recurring failure is maintenance, not initial design

04 Coco's Adventure Playground

The site behaves like an older brochure and pushes out-of-season certainty to Facebook or phone. Families need confidence about opening, prices and parties before travelling. ^[16]

Repair: live opening status + party conversion

05 Avoca Hotel

The inspected asset is a basic legacy brochure with minimal navigation and no prominent direct-booking journey comparable with stronger accommodation sites. ^[17]

Repair: direct booking + richer room proof

THE "BUILT BUT NOT OWNED" CYCLE

Monthly

Check booking paths, forms, menus, hours, events and broken links

Quarterly

Refresh imagery, offers, local guides and search landing pages

Annually

Review analytics, attribution, platform costs and commercial priorities

Market implication: the unmet need is recurring website operations with commercial accountability - not another cycle of one-off rebuilds.

05 / MISSING OWNED WEBSITES

Three businesses with the clearest ownership gap

Wadsworth of Newcastle

01

HERITAGE RETAIL

The official tourism site describes Wadsworth's as a high-street landmark and department store. The business has substantial heritage, yet current discovery is dominated by social and third-party references rather than a strong owned platform. ^[18]

FIRST PHASE

- Departments + brands
- Seasonal landing pages
- Click-and-collect enquiries
- Email capture
- Heritage story

Full ecommerce only after stock, photography, returns and fulfilment can be kept accurate.

Arley House B&B

02

DIRECT BOOKING

Arley House remains visible through tourism and accommodation platforms, but no functioning contemporary standalone site surfaced in the audit. ^[19]

WHY OBVIOUS

- High-intent search
- Meaningful booking value
- OTA commission avoidance
- Room + breakfast proof
- Local guide content

A modest number of incremental or commission-avoided bookings could support a focused build.

Scoper's

03

FOOD + EVENTS

The chef-led, sustainable proposition is already documented by tourism, food and media sources, but the story is not consolidated on a strong owned site. ^[20]

FIRST PHASE

- Live menus + hours
- Supper-club booking
- Private dining
- Sourcing story
- Vouchers + email

Best example of a business whose story is being told by everyone except the business on an owned platform.

05 / MISSING OWNED WEBSITES

Smaller gaps need smaller solutions

Wraps Fashion / Pure Chic / Serenity

EDITED
RETAIL

All are highlighted in official destination content as part of Newcastle's independent shopping offer, yet no strong standalone commercial site surfaced in the audit. ^[18]

Owned brand page

Weekly edited collections

Shoppable social links

Click-and-collect

Email or SMS capture

Selective ecommerce

Do not begin with an enormous catalogue. Begin by turning social attention into an owned customer relationship.

The Mourne Eye

ONE PAGE

The official tourism page carries the season, hours, prices and weather-dependent status, while Facebook acts as the live operating channel. ^[21]

Live status

Prices

Weather notice

Accessibility

Directions

An elaborate site would be wasteful. A fast, accurate one-page asset would be enough.

Newcastle Chamber

COLLECTIVE INFRASTRUCTURE

The Chamber is active in local programming, yet no strong owned platform with a trusted directory, offers, news and visitor-facing commercial information surfaced. ^[22]

Validated member
directory

Seasonal campaigns

Events

Joint offers

Direct links

A good shared platform may outperform selling a large site to every microbusiness.

06 / AGENCY + PLATFORM LANDSCAPE

A fragmented supplier market, not a local agency cluster

Neighbouring businesses are running very different technologies, budgets and maintenance arrangements.

SUPPLIER	LOCAL IMPLEMENTATION	ROLE	MODEL
Cornell Studios	Painted Earth	Ecommerce + independent retail	STUDIO
WebsiteNI	Mourne Seafood	Multi-location hospitality	REGIONAL AGENCY
Cartenio	Tonn Ruray	Hospitality concept	STUDIO
Kyber Digital	McCready's Footwear	Ecommerce build	AGENCY
SMK Creations	Coco's	Legacy brochure	SMALL STUDIO
hibu	Avoca Hotel	Packaged brochure	LEGACY PLATFORM
Amigo Studios	Hugh McCann's	Contemporary hospitality	STUDIO
RANEdigital	Rodgers Construction	High-value trade/services	AGENCY
Net Affinity	Burrendale Hotel	Hotel conversion technology	VERTICAL SPECIALIST
Flipdish	RuMac's	Ordering + repeat purchase	VERTICAL PLATFORM
Simpleview	Destination portal	Place discovery infrastructure	DESTINATION PLATFORM
ITS New Media	Council website	Public-sector infrastructure	REGIONAL AGENCY

01

Site quality is governed more by business economics and procurement choice than by geography.

02

Vertical platforms often outperform custom builds where the customer task is standardised: rooms, tables or takeaway orders.

03

Visible defects frequently point to weak post-launch ownership rather than an absence of design capability.

Attributions were taken from visible site credits and supplier portfolio claims where available. The Brunel's / RM Web association is self-reported and should be treated as provisional. [\[29\]](#) [\[30\]](#)

07 / MEDIA + PR ECOSYSTEM

Local promotion exists - but too much value leaks away

PUBLIC SUPPORT

Make It Local

Council-led promotion can provide participating businesses with photography, videography and exposure through print, outdoor, radio, seasonal and event campaigns. ^[23]

BUSINESS SUPPORT

Go Succeed

Free advice, mentoring and growth support delivered through Northern Ireland's councils, including digital-transformation assistance. ^[24]

LOCAL MEDIA

Mourne Observer

Print, website, app and digital-edition advertising remain part of the local acquisition mix. Publisher testimonials indicate long-running hospitality relationships. ^[25]

EARNED COVERAGE

Down News + regional press

Business expansion, retail awards and place-level stories can secure coverage beyond the immediate town. Painted Earth's expansion is one documented example. ^[26]

PLACE PR

Dundrum's 2025 recognition

Being named Northern Ireland's best place to live created a reusable narrative for food, accommodation, scenery and community. ^[27]

1. REACH

council / media / tourism / social

2. OWNED LANDING PAGE

often missing or stale

3. CONVERSION

booking / order / enquiry

4. RETENTION

email / CRM / repeat visit

The PR-to-owned-media gap: a temporary burst of visibility creates limited long-term value when the business lacks a relevant landing page, direct conversion path or customer capture.

08 / RETURN ON INVESTMENT

Where digital investment is most likely to pay

The same budget can be rational for a B&B and irrational for a low-margin shop. Transaction value, conversion intent and ongoing accuracy matter more than sector prestige.

08 / RETURN ON INVESTMENT

The minimum commercially sensible asset by sector

SECTOR	LIKELY ROI	MINIMUM VIABLE DIGITAL STACK
Hotels / B&Bs / self-catering	Very high	Direct booking, live rates, room detail, local guide, offers, reviews, email capture
Destination restaurants	High	Current menus, table booking, vouchers, dietary information, events, hours
Weddings / events / venues	High	Gallery, capacities, packages, downloads, qualified enquiry forms
High-value trades / services	High	Service pages, case studies, coverage, trust proof, lead forms
Attractions / activities	Med-high	Live status, booking, prices, weather policy, accessibility, FAQs
Specialist gifts / local products	Med-high	Selective ecommerce, gifting, workshops, shipping, maker stories, email
Fashion boutiques	Medium	Brand site, edited collections, click-and-collect, appointments, customer capture
Takeaways	Medium	Menu, Google visibility, ordering and repeat-order mechanics
Walk-in cafes / convenience	Low-med	Accurate Google profile plus a one-page owned site
Seasonal micro-operators	Low bespoke ROI	One live information page plus Google and social

Social is useful, but not ownership.

Facebook and Instagram are rational discovery tools for many local operators. They become a liability when they are the only source of opening hours, menus, events, booking instructions, customer communication and business history.

09 / PLACE STRATEGY

Newcastle: enough demand for targeted investment

NEWCASTLE

Visitor hub + high street + outdoor gateway

The town combines coast, mountains, golf, accommodation, independent shopping, family attractions, dining and events. Official destination infrastructure already supports discovery. ^[28]

Best-fit opportunities

- Accommodation and direct booking
- Golf and outdoor tourism
- Destination dining
- Weddings and events
- Specialist gifts and souvenirs
- Family attractions
- High-value local services

Structural constraints

- Seasonality and weather dependence
- Large low-ticket walk-in segment
- Platform fragmentation
- Businesses with no maintenance owner
- Risk of overbuilding ecommerce
- Collective directory weakness

Strategic answer

Use the official tourism portal as a discovery partner, not a substitute for business-owned conversion. Standardise a managed package for the long tail and reserve bespoke investment for sectors with traceable economics.

DISCOVERY PARTNER → OWNED
CONVERSION

09 / PLACE STRATEGY

Dundrum: a shared destination journey can outperform isolated sites

Dundrum's resident base is too small to support ambitious standalone marketing for every operator. The village nevertheless has a high-quality cluster of destination food, accommodation, scenery and heritage - strengthened by valuable place-level PR in 2025. ^{[2][27]}

STAY

The inference: shared discovery and storytelling should sit above business-owned booking or enquiry systems. The hub should not become another weak directory or take transactions away from members.

RULE 3

10 / COMMERCIAL PLAYBOOK

A three-tier offer matched to local economics

01

Presence repair

MICROBUSINESS

For walk-in operators and businesses where the main risk is inaccurate information or platform dependence.

- Domain and account ownership
- One to five fast pages
- Hours, prices, menu and contact
- Google Business Profile
- Local-search structure
- Analytics and conversion tracking
- Monthly updates

OUTCOME: reliable owned presence

02

Conversion layer

GROWING OPERATOR

For accommodation, restaurants, attractions and stronger retailers with a measurable customer action.

- Direct booking or ordering
- Table reservations
- Gift vouchers
- Click-and-collect
- Event booking
- Qualified enquiry forms
- Email and SMS capture

OUTCOME: more direct transactions

03

Growth programme

PROVEN ECONOMICS

For businesses able to support content, campaigns, CRM and optimisation with accountable returns.

- Search landing pages
- Paid search and retargeting
- CRM and automation
- Press-to-owned integration
- Conversion-rate improvement
- Attribution
- Monthly commercial reporting

OUTCOME: scalable acquisition + retention

SELL THIS

"Own and measure more direct bookings, orders, enquiries and repeat customers."

Not: "Your website looks old - buy a prettier one."

Priority opportunity map

STRATEGIC CONCLUSION

The opportunity is better ownership, not simply more websites

Newcastle and Dundrum are not digital deserts. Their best visitor-facing businesses prove that excellent digital investment can work locally, and several assets compare favourably with businesses in much larger markets.

01

The median remains weak

Stale content, template residue, social dependence, absent conversion and unclear ownership are common.

02

ROI is highly uneven

Accommodation, destination food, events, experiences and high-value services can justify more investment than low-ticket walk-in retail.

03

Maintenance is the underserved layer

Recurring QA and content operations are more valuable than repeating the build-and-abandon cycle.

04

Shared infrastructure matters

Dundrum and Newcastle's long tail may benefit more from trusted collective discovery than from isolated, low-authority micro-sites.

BOTTOM LINE

The central commercial opportunity is to move demand from Google, tourism pages, social media and local PR into a current, measurable, business-owned conversion and retention system.
